Base ball enthusiasts are urging the proposition of having selected a picked team from this island to play some team from Honolulu on the Fourth of July. A team of players, it is argued, could be gotten together that would be likely to scoop the Honoluluans. A game of the kind would be very interesting and would be an attractive feature for our day here.

Word was received Monday from Subland-agent Williams, who was at Hamakua, that at the sale there Saturday he had sold all the reservations but lot 17, which had been withdrawn. The property brought the upset price, all but the reservation between lots 23 and 24, which brought the sum of $355. A. Lidgate, manager of the Paailo Sugar Co., being the purchaser. Judge H. Hall bid on the latter tract as representative of Chas. Notley, of Honolulu.

Holds in Pleasant Memory.

That Mr. Haworth, who has located in the mining town of Manhattan, Nev., where he is conducting a newspaper, has a warm spot in his heart for Hilo, appears in a letter recently received by a friend: "It is a source of regret," he says, "that it is not easy to run over to Hilo and see you all. I certainly expect to go back there. It was the place of real friendships and make-believe enmities, Aloha." "The mining camp life attracts first by its strenuousness and then by its beneficent panorama of opportunities. I miss my own while gazing at others who, standing by my side, leap from poverty to opulence."

Married.

At the residence of Mr. and Mrs. T. Balding, Wainaku, on Wednesday, May 9, Dr. Archer Irwin and Miss Louise Monte Verde were quietly married. Rev. Father Adrian performing the ceremony. ## THE LINE OF FRONT STREET.

Holloway Disapproves of Proposed Change.

The county clerk's office received a communication by Monday morning's mail from Supt. of Public Works Holloway in reference to the proposition to change the mauka line of Front street. He says: "It does not seem to me advisable to make the jog in the line as shown at the intersection of Church street. It would be much better to have the line continued as shown on the Waiianu street side than move it mauka on the other side of Church street."

"If, however, the Supervisors, after careful consideration of this matter, consider that the location as shown by Mr. Cook is the proper one, I will arrange to approve the tracing. I am returning it with this letter and would ask that you bring the matter again to the attention of the Board."

Incidents of the Earthquake.

C. F. Bradshaw has received a letter under date of May 6, from a friend who formerly lived in Hilo, and who experienced the earthquake in San Francisco. It contains some startling statements of incidents of the catastrophe. For instance, three women and two men were shot for having fires after 9 p. m.; fifteen out of sixty men who broke into the mint were shot on the date of the letter; four men were lynched for attempted hold-ups; eighteen infants were born the day before at the locality where the writer was, and twenty-five at the park; supplies were being distributed, and measures taken to send thousands away and set other thousands to work cleaning up debris, providing sanitary arrangements, building temporary structures and disposing of the dead. Nobody knows, it says, the loss of life or destruction of property. The whole country was rising in support but the burden was tremendous.

Accounting Called For.

On a motion made by Aki Aoa, son of Mrs. Emma Kaeewaihu, an insane person, Ben H. Brown, the administrator of the estate, was summoned before Judge Parsons on Wednesday last to show cause why he should not make an accounting of the affairs of the estate. It was charged that he had made no accounting of the sum of $276.29 received at the time of appointment; also of the sum of $619.75 realized from the sale of real estate at Waiakae. The guardian had leased land belonging to the estate, it was further charged, for $100 a year, which sum had not been accounted for; and there was also unaccounted for furniture of the value of $90. The defense set forth that certain vouchers had been lost, and the case was continued till Tuesday. Judge Kalakou appeared for the prosecution and Carl S. Smith for the defense.

Gift For Rainbow Falls Park.

At the regular meeting of the executive council of the Board of Trade held Friday afternoon Mr. Scott offered the amount of his share of the liability that he had assumed on the Moolau hall indebtedness to the Board for the beautification of Rainbow Falls Park, this indebtedness having been shouldered by the county. A subscription fund for the improvement of the park was started some time ago by Miss Pomeroy and this gift of Mr. Scott's, amounting to $116.70, will increase greatly its total. This fund is to be expended with the approval of, and in cooperation with, the local improvements committee.

Disembarkation Quiet.

A man representing himself to be chief cook on the Olympia, and to have been left, stated that the Victoria, another steamer of the Dollar line, also chartered by the Hill railroads, like the Olympia, to take Japanese from the islands to the mainland, would not make the trip here in his opinion. He described the landing of the passengers as done as secretly as possible to avoid arousing anti-Japanese labor sentiment. After health examination at Port Townsend, the run is made by night to a point near Seattle where they disembark the laborers and put them aboard cars for distribution where they will attract the least attention.

Movements of Vessels.

The steamer Enterprise will leave from San Francisco for Hilo direct. The Hiloian will leave Seattle for the island about the 23rd. The Annie Johnson probably left San Francisco on Sunday for Hilo direct.

Mrs. J. C. Mocine was in Fruitvale, Oakland, at the time of the earthquake, awaiting her husband for a trip north. Mr. Mocine having been delayed in leaving Hilo. She has been heard from as safe.

President's "Muck Rake" Speech.

Before a large concourse of people, with the President of the United States as the chief figure of interest and with the Supreme Court and the Senate, the House of Representatives and the diplomatic corps as spectators the corner-stone of the office building of the House of Representatives was laid with impressive ceremonies.

The speech delivered by the President on this occasion contains utterances that have aroused much comment, and the suggestion of taxation of inheritances on a progressive scale is a bold and radical one. The two passages that have made the "muck rake" speech so extensively commented upon are as follows:

"At the risk of repetition let me say again that my plea is not for immunity to but for the most unsparring exposure of the politician who betrays his trust, of the big business man who makes or spends his fortune in illegitimate or corrupt ways. There should be a resolute effort to hunt every such man out of the position he has disgraced. Expose the crime and hunt down the criminal, but remember that even in the case of crime, if it is attacked in sensational, lurid and untruthful fashion, the attack may do more damage to the public mind than the crime itself. It is because I feel that there should be no rest in the endless war against the forces of evil that I ask that the war be conducted with sanity as well as with resolution. The men with the muck rakes are often indispensable to the well-being of society, but only if they know when to stop raking the muck, and to look forward to the celestial crown above them, to the crown of worthy endeavor. There are beautiful things above and round about them; and if they gradually grow to feel that the whole world is nothing but muck, their power of usefulness is gone."

"It is important to this people to grapple with the problems connected with the amassing of enormous fortunes, and the use of those fortunes, both corporate and individual, in business. We should discriminate in the sharpest way between fortunes well won and fortunes ill won; between those gained as an incident to performing great services to the community as a whole, and those gained in evil fashion by keeping just within the limits of mere law-hokey. Of course, no amount of charity in spending such fortunes in any way compensates for misconduct in making them. As a matter of personal conviction, and without pretending to discuss the details or formulate the system, I feel that we shall ultimately have to consider the adoption of some such scheme as that of a progressive tax on all fortunes, beyond a certain amount, either given in life or devised or bequeathed upon death to any individual—a tax so framed as to put it out of the power of the owner of one of these enormous fortunes to hand on more than a certain amount to any one individual; the tax, of course, to be imposed by the national and not the state government. Such taxation should, of course, be aimed merely at the inheritance or transmission in their entirety of those fortunes swollen beyond all healthy limits."

Figuring on Cannery.

Approval of articles of incorporation of the Pineapple Cannery Co. have not yet been received, but are due soon. On their receipt a stockholders' meeting will be called and permanent officers elected. Officers of the company are figuring on the probable supply of fruit that will be offered, and the capacity of cannery it will be advisable to construct. Secretary Vicars is desirous that all who propose growing pineapples confer with him and advise him of what they purpose doing.
